

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
July 20, 2015

Contact: Russ Heimerich (916) 574-8171

Los Angeles Massage School's Approval to Operate Revoked

SACRAMENTO – The Department of Consumer Affairs' Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education (Bureau) has revoked the approval to operate issued to Hans Academy of Massage located in Los Angeles.

The approval to operate was revoked by default after the owner of Hans Academy of Massage, Sun Yo Han, failed to file a Notice of Defense in response to Bureau's filing of an Accusation.

According to the Accusation, Han provided false information on the school application, changed ownership without approval and failed to notify the Bureau of closure. The complete Accusation can be viewed here:

http://www.bppe.ca.gov/enforcement/actions/accusation_1936441.pdf

"The Bureau works tirelessly to ensure approved schools are in compliance with the law," said Bureau Chief Joanne Wenzel.

The school's approval to operate was revoked effective July 19, 2015.

###

The Department of Consumer Affairs promotes and protects the interests of California Consumers. Consumers can file complaints against licensees by contacting the Department of Consumer Affairs at (800) 952-5210.

Consumers can also file a complaint online at www.dca.ca.gov.